Hollywood is coming to this area

Peabody native Matt Aaron will film "All Saints Day" on the North Shore

By Cary Shuman

Hollywood-based producer and director Matt Aaron Krinsky, a 1996 graduate of Peabody High School, will be returning to the area to film his independent movie, "All Saints Day."

Krinsky, who grew up in Peabody and attended Cohen Hillel Academy in Marblehead, will begin filming in Chelsea this winter. Krinsky has strong local ties to the city.

His grandparents, the late William and Doris Waxman, were well-known in Chelsea - William, as the owner of the Waxman Insurance Agency on Broadway, Doris as a community leader and member of the Chelsea School Committee.

His mother, Debra Waxman Krinsky, graduated from Shurtleff School and Chelsea High School and became a teacher at the Shurtleff School, while his father, Marty, was a beloved teen director at the old Chelsea YMHA on Crescent Avenue. His uncles, Ronald, a board member at Temple Emmanuel of Chelsea, and Steven, a Chelsea firefighter, are still active in the city.

Matt has fond memories from when he was a child and would visit his grandfather William's insurance office "right next to the fire station."

"We spent hours there as kids, and also on Cottage Street [where the Waxman family lived]," said Matt. "Those were great days."

His darkly comedic movie, All Saints Day, is about four estranged siblings from an Irish immigrant family that come back to Chelsea and try to get their oldest brother on to a better path in life.

The story unfolds on All Saints Day, a Christian holiday that is celebrated on Nov. 1.

Launching his filmmaking career

Considered one of the rising stars in the filmmaking industry. Krinsky said he "got really lucky" when he was hired as a production assistant at Quentin Tarantino's production company.

"I observed and learned a lot in that position," said Matt. "Then I moved on and took a two-year acting conservatory program at the Baron Brown Studio in Santa Monica. I went to one audition and I realized I didn't want to be an actor. The experience in acting was incredible, though, because now one of my strengths is directing actors. I can speak their language. I understand their process and I have the utmost respect for their craft."

In 2005, he produced his first large-scale film, "An Eye For An Eye," starring Sally Kirkland, a past winner of a Golden Globe and a nominee for an Academy

During his career, Krinsky has directed several short films and worked with playwrights to develop new works in theatrical production.

At Brandeis, he set the foundation to a career in film

Matt Aaron Krinsky is a 2000 graduate of Brandeis University, a highly prestigious academic institution in Waltham where he majored in psychology and minored in film studies and art his-

"I was pre-med at first, but during my sophomore year I got an epiphany that I thought maybe I wanted to do something a little bit more creative," said Krinsky. "Basically, I ended up picking psychology as my major because I thought, how could an understanding of the human psyche not help a film director?"

He also attended a summer semester program in film studies at New York University (NYU).

Off To Hollywood

Following his graduation from Brandeis, "I somehow convinced my parents to let me move cross country to Hollywood," related Matt. "I had no job, no friends, not a lot of money. My mother and I had an epic road-trip adventure across the country. She helped me look for an apartment for about a week, and then I stayed here, and she boarded a plane back home. That was 22 years ago in August."

Lynn voters head to the polls on Tuesday, Nov. 8

By Cary Shuman

Lynn residents will join voters statewide Tuesday in selecting the next governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

City Clerk Janet Rowe said that polling locations will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Election Day.

Residents have been vigorously participating in the mailin balloting and the early voting (in-person) processes leading up to Tuesday's general election.

The governor's race and the ballot questions, especially Questions 1 and 4, appear to be driving up the turnout for the election.

Attorney General Maura Healey and Salem Mayor Kim Driscoll are running mates on the Democratic Party ticket for the gubernatorial and lieutenant gubernatorial positions. If elected, Healey would become the Cellucci was appointed U.S. Ambassador to Canada in 2001).

Geoff Diehl (governor) and Leah Allen (lieutenant governor) are running on the Republican Party Ticket. Running on the Libertarian Party ticket are Kevin Reed (governor) and Peter Reed (lieutenant governor).

State Reps. Dan Cahill, Peter Capano, and Donald Wong

are unopposed in their bids for first woman in state history to be re-election. State Sen. Brendan elected governor by the voters (Jane Swift served as governor Cahill is also a candidate for of Massachusetts after Gov. Paul re-election. AN IMPORTANT ELECTION WITH BIG BALLOT QUESTIONS

This Tuesday, November 8, is state election day in Massachusetts. With two-term incumbent Governor Charlie Baker having chosen not to seek re-election, voters will be choosing a new governor for the first time in eight years.

The contest between Democrat Maura Healey and Republican Geoff Diehl represents the starkest contrast between two candidates for the governorship in our state in almost 100 years.

Healey and Diehl espouse polar-opposite views on almost every topic, most notably regarding former President Donald Trump (Diehl is an unabashed supporter, Healey is not).

It is not an overstatement to say that the future direction of our state is dependent on Tuesday's outcome, and for that reason alone, everyone should get out to vote.

There also are four ballot questions for voters to consider. The two that have garnered the most attention are Question 1 and Question 4.

Question 1 would impose an additional four percent state tax on the income of residents that exceeds $1 million. Net income up to $1 million would still be taxed at the five percent rate, with only the amount exceeding $1 million taxed at the higher rate.

It should be noted that the state legislature cannot enact a graduated income tax. The Mass. Constitution does not allow the legislature to do so, and thus voters essentially will be determining whether to amend our state constitution to permit a higher tax rate on high-income individuals.

The question is being supported by the citizens group Mass. Fair Share and is being opposed primarily by a number of ultra-wealthy individuals who have contributed millions of dollars to the Vote No campaign.

Question 4 on the state ballot essentially does this: It allows any resident of Massachusetts, regardless of immigration status, to obtain a Mass. driver's license, provided they meet all of the usual requirements of obtaining a license. In addition, the new law specifically states that such persons will not be eligible to become registered voters and will not be able to obtain a REAL ID driver's license

The Mass. legislature already has approved a law to do this. That law is set to go into effect on July 1, 2023. However, those who oppose the law gathered enough signatures to place the question on the ballot. A "Yes" vote on Question 4 will allow the law to go into effect on July 1, 2023.

We would note that a wide array of various groups, including police chiefs, district attorneys, and other law enforcement agencies, strongly support a "Yes" vote on Question 4. In addition, similar laws have been enacted in many other states.

As a final reminder to our readers, early voting is now underway in every city and town hall across the state. However, early voting ends this Friday -- there is no early voting this weekend -- so if you do not vote before Friday at your local city or town hall, you will have to go to the polls on Tuesday.

With so much at stake, we urge all of our readers to get out and vote.

GUEST OP-ED

John Fetterman, President Roosevelt and disability in public office

By Glenn Mollette

One of the greatest Presidents of all time was Franklin D. Roosevelt. He served from 1933 to 1945. He led this country and saw us through some of our toughest years. Many say he stands as the greatest President of all time. Ironically, he had a difficult time standing.

Photographs of Roosevelt in a wheelchair are rare but you can find one on the Internet.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, was our 32nd President but he began experiencing symptoms of a paralytic illness in 1921 when he was 39 years old. His main symptoms were fever; symmetric, ascending paralysis; facial paralysis; bowel and bladder dysfunction; numbness and hyperesthesia; and a descending pattern of recovery. He was diagnosed with poliomyelitis and underwent years of therapy, including hydrotherapy at Warm Springs, Georgia. Roosevelt remained paralyzed from the waist down and relied on a wheelchair and leg braces for mobility, which he took efforts to conceal in public. In 1938, he founded the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, leading to the development of polio vaccines. Although historical accounts continue to refer to Roosevelt's case as polio, the diagnosis has been questioned in the context of current medical science, with a competing diagnosis of Guillain-Barré syndrome proposed by some authors.

We could talk and write about Franklin D. Roosevelt all day. However here are a few of his noted accomplishments from his 12 years of service - longer than anyone. Creation of the emergency banking act to counteract the Great Depression. Establishment of FDIC. Unemployment rate reduction. Setup many institutions to support the New Deal. Created institutions as part of the New Deal. Created the U.S. Social Security System. Established the minimum wage and 40-hour work week. He took action to prohibit discrimination in employment, led America to victory in World War II, and, took part in the creation of the United Nations. He also aided water pollution control and more. (Wikipedia)

However, would Roosevelt even have a chance today? Can you imagine him trying to conceal his wheelchair or his leg braces? Not in this age. Would The Press and the opposition tear him to sheds as being physically incapable of holding down the job?

Disabled Americans and people worldwide can point to Roosevelt as someone who dealt with tremendous physical obstacles to accomplish much for our country and the world.

Americans with disabilities should not be excluded from running for public office. We vote for who we want to vote for but in a free country all citizens should be able to try.

John Fetterman of Pennsylvania is trying. He has had a stroke, but he's trying. It has been amazing to witness the amount of support Pennsylvania has given Fetterman. He is in a dead heat race with national celebrity Dr. Mehmet Oz whose star power as a long time TV doctor star has surely greatly boosted him in his race with Fetterman for the United States Senate.

Tragically, Fetterman's health apparently prevents him from articulating clearly. His mental ability to quickly process what he is hearing is obviously impaired. This has to make it tough for him. Roosevelt did not have this problem. His mind appeared to be sharp and his speech clear and convincing during his years as President. This is where Roosevelt's situation and Fetterman's is different.

Fetterman needs and deserves time to heal. He obviously needs continuing medical treatment and therapy to recuperate from his stroke. He is still a young man. In a year, or two he may be fully recovered and more able to serve. This is unfortunate for Fetterman and his supporters but only makes sense for his personal health. The fact that he is running for such a demanding job in his current state demonstrates that his mental clarity is somewhat impaired. It also demonstrates that people close to him are mentally impaired to have encouraged him to continue in this political contest. He needs time to get well so that if elected he can serve effectively.

The bottom line is that voters will decide who represents them. This is one right we must continue to cherish, protect and be mentally clear about.

OFFICIALS CELEBRATE THE COMPLETION OF OVER 10 MILES OF THE NORTHERN STRAND TRAIL

Special to the Independent

The Baker-Polito Administration celebrated the completion of more than 10 miles of the Northern Strand Trail, which is a shared used path that traverses parts of the Cities of Everett, Lynn, Malden, and Revere, and the Town of Saugus along the rail bed of the former Saugus Branch Railroad. The $15.5 million project by the Executive Office of Energy and Environmental Affairs (EEA) was completed utilizing funding from the Gateway City Parks Program.

"Projects like the Northern Strand Trail serve as critical assets that link communities and residents across the Commonwealth together," said Governor Charlie Baker. "Through the MassTrails team, our Administration has been proud to collaborate across state government and with municipal partners and trail advocacy groups to advance these projects that bring numerous environmental, recreational and transportation benefits to communities in Massachusetts."

"We were pleased to fund the Northern Strand Trail, and to partner with Everett, Lynn, Malden, Revere, and Saugus to advance this critical project," said Lieutenant Governor Karyn Polito. "The Northern Strand Trail will provide benefits not only to the residents and businesses along the trail, but also to visitors and those living in the surrounding region."

The trail corridor connects neighborhoods, links residents to business districts, provides access to regional assets such as DCR's Lynn Shore and Nahant Beach Reservations, serves as a critical component of the East Coast Greenway, and improves the quality of life for the region's residents. The trail also has transportation and greenhouse gas emissions benefits. Provision of a practical, safe route of relatively short distance between major cities helps to encourage walking and biking as an alternative to driving, thus reducing emissions and helping the Commonwealth comply with the Global Warming Solutions Act.

"Safe and fun access to the outdoors is a priority of the Baker-Polito Administration, and I am pleased that this project provides residents with great opportunity to get some exercise and enjoy the Commonwealth's natural resources," said Energy and Environmental Affairs Secretary Beth Card. "Significantly, rail trails like the Northern Strand Trail also provide commuters with the option to leave their cars behind, which reduce the release of harmful carbon emissions and assists in the Commonwealth's efforts to achieve Net Zero in 2050."

construction of the The Northern Strand was supported by the work of the Interagency MassTrails Team, which is composed of staff from EEA, MassDOT, and the Department of Conservation and Recreation (DCR). The purpose of the team is to help develop a unified vision for a trails network and translate that into strategic investments, policy innovations to facilitate development of trails, and partnerships with municipalities and other organizations. The Northern Strand trail project is a direct result of the group's "one team, one plan, one vision" approach to advance multi-use trails across the Commonwealth.

"Shared use paths give people a safe, comfortable, and convenient option to walk and bike for everyday trips without relying on a car to get to destinations. The benefits are countless when it comes to active travel for wellbeing, public health, reducing pollution, and supporting local businesses," said Transportation Secretary and CEO Jamey Tesler. "Whether people are commuting to work, going shopping, or just out for fun, more than 100,000 people of four gateway cities now are within ½ mile of the Northern Strand."

Following work conducted by many partners, including the long-time advocacy of Bike to the Sea organization, trail segments were in various stages when EEA took on the project. EEA's partners on the project included the five communities, with Revere acting as the contracting entity during the construction phase. The project enhanced an already paved trail in some communities, such as upgrading road crossings to make them better and safer locations. In other communities where the rails were still in place the project involved all aspects of trail design, permitting, and construction. Additionally, the trail was designed by the team of Brown, Richardson, and Rowe, landscape architects, and Stantec Consulting engineers, who also administered project construction, and built by the R. Zoppo Corporation.

"After nearly 30 years of tireless advocacy, Bike to the Sea is thrilled to celebrate the official ribbon cutting for the Northern Strand Trail," said Jonah Chiarenza, Executive Director of Bike to the Sea. "We thank the Commonwealth of Massachusetts for this historic investment in recreation and active transportation."

Design work for the balance of the Northern Strand Extension in Lynn, which will travel along South Common Street, Market Street, and the Carroll Parkway before reaching Nahant Beach, is at the 75% stage. Funding for construction is programmed on MassDOT's Transportation Improvement Program for FY24, which means that work should begin in the fall of 2023 and end in the summer of 2025.

On the southern end of the Northern Strand the City of Everett has been building the segment from West Street to the Mystic River. In addition, DCR is completing the design and permitting of the Mystic River Bicycle and Pedestrian Bridge. Construction funding has been set aside for bridge work to begin in the summer of 2023, with construction expected to take about two years. The completed project will result in a transportation and recreation corridor of about 11.5 miles from the Somerville side of the Mystic River at Assembly Square to the beach at the Nahant causeway.

"I would like to thank Governor Baker, Lieutenant Governor Polito, and Secretary Card from the Executive Office of Energy and Environmental Affairs for their support of this important regional initiative," said Saugus Town Manager Scott C. Crabtree. "I would also like to commend the Cities of Revere, Malden, Lynn and Everett, as well as Bike to the Sea, for their partnership and dedication in turning this multi-community effort into a reality. In addition, I would like to thank all of the town's volunteers and officials who contributed their ideas and suggestions, which strengthened the community vision for this important recreational staple."

"We're thrilled to see the expansion of the Northern Strand and to have Lynn added to the shared use path," said Lynn Mayor Jared Nicholson. "This initiative will contribute to our goals of increasing connectivity and accessibility to transportation and open, green space throughout the City and beyond."

"The completion of the Northern Strand Trail is a transformative multimodal transportation investment for the communities north of Boston that have been historically underserved by our transportation network," said Everett Mayor Carlo DeMaria. "I applaud this achievement by the Baker administration, welcoming the Cities of Revere, Saugus and Lynn into the trail network, and look forward to the full completion of the path when the Mystic River bridge opens in the coming years."

"There isn't anything that has transformed our city like the Northern Strand Community Trail has done," said Malden Mayor Gary Christenson. "From providing a safe space to bike, run, and walk to creating a place for public art to being a place for families to come together, the trail has achieved all that we had hoped for and it has also proven that hard work is still the key to success. Thank you to Bike to the Sea for their 20 years of dedication to making this invaluable project a reality."

"The Northern Strand Community Trail is a shining example of regional collaboration and the commitment of the Commonwealth to enhance the quality of life for the residents of our urban communities," said Revere Mayor Brian Arrigo. "Thanks to the hard work of our local and state partners, the residents of Revere will enjoy this trail for generations to come and have enhanced access to open space and outdoor recreation."

"The Northern Strand Trail continues to bring people together both within and across communities," said State Senator Brendan Crighton (D-Lynn). "We are thankful for this project, which is a major investment in our region's public health, economy, and emissions reduction efforts."

The image above shows the route of the Northern Strand. The completed 10-mile (+/-) section of shared used path is shown as a solid blue line. On the northern end the dotted section in Lynn is in design, to be built starting in FY24. Also, the Community Path of Lynn, a spur trail, was built as part of a separate effort. On the southern end, the City of Everett is completing a connection to the Mystic River, and the Mystic River Bicycle and Pedestrian Bridge is under design (also to be built starting in FY24).

Bringing All Saints Day to the big screen

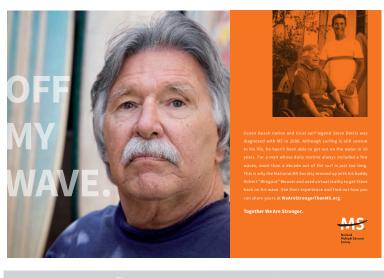

Krinsky said his current film project, "All Saints Day" was seven years in the making.

"It started as a play. I know the playwright and she asked me to direct the first staged reading of it," recalled Krinsky. "We did one performance and as I was standing in the back of the room, I realized that this play lent itself well to a lower-budget indie film: a small cast, one main location, incredible dialogue, and lots of heart and humor.'

Krinsky said he asked the playwright if she had any desire to adapt the play into a screenplay and do a feature movie and the playwright agreed to join him in the project.

"It took about five years to put the project together, and the last two years, we started really getting ready to shoot it," said Krinsky. "We're aiming to start shooting in December."

Matt Aaron Krinsky, once the little kid who used to visit his grandparents in Chelsea, is now poised to bring some big-time Hollywood excitement to greater Boston. He hopes to shoot some of the film's outdoor scenes in his hometown of Peabody.

VETERANS APPRECIATION BREAKFAST AT KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

The Father Driullette 4th Degree Assembly 390, a separate part of the Lynn Knights of Columbus, held a Veterans' Appreciation Breakfast thanking veterans for their service. Faithful Navigator Charles Rowe explained the role of the Assembly as he stated, "We take part in civic, patriotic, faith, and charitable events. He continued to say, "Whether you served around the world or in country, veterans made a difference protecting and preserving freedoms in society that we enjoy each day. Today is a tribute to all who have given by serving. Hopefully, it is a sign of our appreciation and gratitude for your service to America."

Capt. Wm. G. Shoemaker Post 345 Adjutant Jack Marino said, "The Missing Man Table is to remember soldiers who served.

Let's remember, pause, and recognize the MIAs and POWs who are missing from our ranks. They are unable to be with their loved ones; we give them a humble privilege and bear witness for their continued absence. This table is a place of dignity and Attending was Michael Sweeney of Lynn Veterans Services who expressed a thank you to the Knights of Columbus for having this event. He added by saying, "This is a good expression of what a community is all about. It is a community coming together for the Veterans. Thank you to Shoemaker Post for the Missing Man Table which was incredible and to all who made this breakfast enjoyable."
